WIPP UPDATE: May 23, 2014

Re-entry team continues investigation in Panel 7

Yesterday, the WIPP team entered Room 7 of Panel 7 to obtain additional video footage and photographs of the pack of drums that includes the breached drum that potentially contributed to the February 14 radiological release. Through photographic evidence, the team was able to confirm the drum identification number. The photos are currently being analyzed by the Department of Energy, contractor Nuclear Waste Partnership and the Accident Investigation Team. Photos obtained during the recent entry have been posted onto the WIPP recovery website at
